Caught in the act of being himself, a brave engineer takes the platform at McGill Hyde Park held yesterday at noon.

Topics included the establishment of a yogurt society and an impassioned, if short, defence of Governor Wallace.

One speaker (an engineer, to be specific) advocated the abolishment of McGill College, to be replaced by a brewery. Science students are merely "frustrated engineers", and Artists are "hideous abortions before God and mankind", he maintained.

Convocation to award five honorary degrees

Honorary Degrees will be conferred on five candidates by Chancellor Ross for their contributions to education, health and public welfare at the annual Founder's Day Convocation today at 4 pm in the Currie Gym. The recipients are: Sir Ronald Gould, Philip Fisher, Dr. Kenneth Cox, (Honorary LL.D. degrees), Mrs. Alexander McMurray and Francis Murphy who will be presented with Honorary M.A. and M.Sc. degrees respectively. Three hundred and eighty-five students convocate.

Sir Ronald Gould, a British educator, will deliver the Convocation address. Born and educated in England, he was President of the National Union of Teachers from 1943 to 1944 and became General Secretary in 1947. He was Alternate Delegate for the British Government to three Conferences of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization. He is also a member of the United Kingdom Commission for UNESCO and of its Education Advisory Committee.

In 1952, Sir Ronald was appointed President of the World Confederation of Organizations of the Teaching Profession and was re-appointed five times, the last in 1962.

He was knighted on July 12, 1955, and is a Governor of the Commonwealth Institute, South Kensington, and of Westminster College, as well as a Trustee of the Royal Society of Teachers.

Philip Fisher received his B.A. in 1916 from McGill. He was born in Montreal in 1896 and is Chairman of the Southam Company, Limited.

Fisher served as Chairman of the Welfare Federation of Montreal; of the Canadian Welfare Council; of the Montreal Council of Social Agencies; and of the Executive Committee and Commission of Education and Personnel of the Canadian Welfare Council.

He was also a founder of the Montreal School of Social Work, and was its Vice-President from 1937 to 1940.

Dr. Kenneth Cox, a McGill graduate, received his M.S.A. in 1929. Born in Nova Scotia in 1899, he received his B.S.A. from the University of Toronto in 1921 and his M.S.A. from McGill.

In 1924 he was appointed Assistant Superintendent of the Experimental Farm at Nappan, Nova Scotia where he served until 1937. He was appointed Professor of Agronomy at the Nova Scotia Agricultural College and in 1941 was made Vice-Principal and in 1946, Principal.

In 1960 he was made an honorary life member of the Canadian Seed Growers Association and a Fellow of the Royal Agricultural Institute of Canada.

Mrs. Alexander McMurray, who has served McGill for 32 years as secretary to four McGill Principals, was born in Halifax. Before coming to McGill, she was one of the official court reporters for the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia.

Asked to help out for a few days in an emergency at McGill, Mrs. McMurray remained on as Secretary to General Sir Arthur Currie, Principals A.F. Morgan, Lewis Williams Douglas, and F. Cyril James, serving with Dr. James for almost his entire 22-year regime. She retired finally in 1961.

Francis Murphy was born in Ontario in 1893 and served with the Grand Trunk Pacific and Canadian Pacific Railways in various capacities from 1913 to 1932.

In 1935, he joined the Ontario Department of Health where he established the night service of the Central Public Health Laboratory.

Japanese Symphony launches tour

The Kwansei Gakuin University launched its goodwill tour of Canada on Sunday with a band performance in Redpath Hall.

A reception was held for the band at the Students' Union on Sunday where they were officially welcomed by Chancellor Ross.

Gifts were exchanged between the two universities. McGill received a colourful banner framed in gold Japanese motif, a pagoda in the foreground set off by a Mount Fujiyama scene. In return, McGill presented Kwansei Gakuin with a copy of Old McGill for their library.

The band's repertoire includes both Japanese and Western music; classical and modern; church music, marches, overtures, folk music and jazz. At the performance in Redpath Hall, in honour of Canada, the group played "Alouette", "Red River Valley" and "The Maple Leaf Forever".

The 76-member band, which was organized in 1954, is made up entirely of amateurs. None of the members are majoring in music but represent a variety of faculties, including economics, commerce, sociology, literature, science and theology.

Following a tour of the McGill campus and various other parts of the city, the visiting musicians left to continue their tour of major Canadian cities.

Lectures cancelled

All lectures and laboratory periods, except those in the Faculties of Medicine and Dentistry, will be cancelled from 3 to 6 today for the annual Founder's Day Fall Convocation.

Kingston trip

Tickets for the trip to the McGill-Queen's football game this Saturday go on sale today at the Box Office in the Union. They may be purchased any day this week between 9 am and 5 pm at a price of $10.50.

Rehabilitation of criminals to be discussed by Edmison

Should the punishment match the crime or the man? This and other ideas will come under focus as J. Alen Edmison, Q.C., will discuss "The Penal System and Rehabilitation" today at 1 pm in the Union Ballroom.

Edmison is an affiliated member of the National Parole Board of Canada. He was formerly Assistant Principal of Queen's University, studied arts at Queen's, and law at McGill.

Today's speaker has also been an alderman on the Montreal City Council and a member of the Board of Health. He has held many executive posts in organizations seeking reforms in our penal system.

"Edmison's speech should prove very informative and interesting to all those concerned with modern attitudes towards crime and punishment," claims a Debating Union spokesman.

A leaf from history's pages

With the Queen of Canada safely arrived upon the soil of her domain, it is now a generally accepted fact that the much publicized threats of physical violence to that body politic are but the frothings from some few rabid minds. Still, to appease the troubled minds of those directly concerned for the Queen's security, the royal sojourn has been confined to areas of relative safety, with little public exposure. Thus Montreal, Canada's most populous city, will be deprived of the privilege of seeing its monarch and of participating in that piece of history granted Prince Edward Island, Quebec City, and Ottawa. Selfishly, this is the price we must pay for living in a vibrant society where things are in a continual and often violent state of flux.

But if there are those among us who feel undeservedly deprived, we must think also of the disappointment of the Queen. A local morning newspaper yesterday quoted her as looking forward to viewing, for the first time in seven years, the autumnal splendour of eastern Canada. While it is undoubtedly true that Prince Edward Island has its share of arboreal colour, it is certain that nothing compares to that in the mountains surrounding Montreal — and Her Majesty won't be allowed to see it. For this, we must curse our misfortune, sympathize with the hard fate of a Queen, and re-examine the New Frontière in the light of the Royal visit.

A direct quote from that same English-language morning paper gives us a possible clue: "A warm October sun beat down Sunday on the sleepy streets and multi-coloured trees of the Prince Edward Island capital and there was virtually no sign of the massive security measures which will remain in effect during the Queen's visit here..."

Could it be, that while secret police hide behind Prince Edward Island foliage, revolutionary terrorists are lurking in Laurentian underbrush?

The whole thing smacks of the Borneo jungle, guerilla warfare, and the conscription issue in the First World War, when many of our brethren took to these same hills. Perhaps like the Japanese on Pacific isles, they await the great upsurge of their compatriots to lead them against the royalist forces like the last of the Great Horde.

If this indeed be the case, there is small wonder that the Queen has been prohibited from venturing too near the area surrounding Montreal. How could we salve our conscience if some mishap were to befall her person? And so, the Queen must content herself with second-place splendours and forego the beauties of the Laurentians.

There are those who would doubt that any such dangers could exist so near civilization, but if Birnam Wood could march against Dunsinane, why not Mont Laurier against the House of Windsor?

Fans let down the Redmen

Dear Madam,
Heartiest congratulations to the Redmen for their victory on Saturday, especially since they had to buck not only Varsity (who were very well supported), but also their own incredibly passive crowd.

Of course, when one considers the calibre of the Red 'n White's cheerleaders, this offers an easy excuse. We certainly hope that the large amount of time they spent sitting on the field, and the experience they gained following the cheers of the crowd will stand them in good stead on their expense-paid trips to Queen's and Toronto.

I can anticipate any number of annoyed reactions to this letter: this is a sophisticated university, it's immature to yell your head off at a game, the team doesn't need it anyway, what are we supposed to do without cheerleaders, etc., etc. — all nonsense.

Well, to the Redmen, good luck. You're at your annual Disadvantage. The other teams may not have as good men or as good a coach, but they've got good cheerleaders and good fans. Which do you suppose will prove more important? Probably both.

Radio McGill Strikes Again

Dear Madam,

In reference to yesterday's Editorial concerning Radio McGill, I would like to correct one or two statements which I consider to be erroneous.

I am referring to the paragraph which states that the establishment of an independent FM Station would "require enormous sums of money and the hiring of several permanent employees". It is my contention, that the only large sum of money that would be necessary, is an initial outlay to purchase transmitting equipment, a technical brief and rental or purchase of antenna equipment.

There is a possibility however, the such an FM station, although it would be educational and therefore non-commercial, could be made a financially profitable organization and subsequently this initial outlay mentioned above could be repaid over a period of time. The day to day expenses of such a station would be surprisingly low and could be supported by an annual budget from the S.E.C.

My second point of contention is the suggestion of several permanent employees. To my knowledge not one of the foremost college stations in the U.S. have any permanent employees and all that would be required for Radio McGill's proposed setup is either a business manager or technician.

Apart from these two points I am in complete agreement as to the limitless potentials of Radio McGill.

Chris Portner.

Two Wrongs...

I should like to correct two errors in Radio McGill's press release concerning our French programs, which appeared in yesterday's Daily.

The programs, which are prepared by the Association Generale des Etudiants de l'Universite de Montreal, are entitled, not "Pensees Francaises, but "Climat Ageumique".

Secondly we have placed no restrictions on the separatist or other content of the programs. We are relying entirely on the sense of personal respensibility of our confreres from the U. of M.

Ken Cabatoff,
Station Manager.

Can the Cannon

Dear Madam,

Perhaps I am confused in my sense of what is appropriate, but I was shocked to see a military field-piece at Activities Night. Surely it was right out of place in a gathering of people who had come, we hope, to find ways of becoming more civilised and peaceful individuals? There was, happily, only a very small group of students who showed interest in this exhibit; but this is not enough. Most British universities have outlawed the OTC, or its equivalents, from campus Activities and advertising; it's time that the Daily led McGill to do the same.

Sports and the single girl

by SHARON SUTHERLAND
Women's Sports Editor

Well, here we are in the month of October, and the W.A.A. is teeming with a multitude of activities. Headlining this week's events is the initial meeting of co-ed gymnastics in the Sir Arthur Currie gym at 5-7 pm. This is the very first year that girls have been able to participate in a gymnastic club under the able coaching of Ben Higgins. During the club sessions, both male and female gymnasts will receive coaching in free calisthenics, box work, trampolining and uneven parallels. The Women's Rifery Club is holding their first meeting on Thursday at 7:30 in the Currie gym; rifles and ammunitions are supplied. This is a fascinating sport, especially if you're interested in winning a panda bear at Belmont park! Thursday is the deadline for team entries of the Basketball and Volleyball Round Robin Tournaments. A basketball referees' course is being held on Wednesday at 1:10 pm in room 12 R.V.C. Members of last year's intercollegiate team are urged to attend.

If you've ever thought about learning how to curl, (and I don't mean hair), then attend the first meeting of the co-ed curling club on Thursday at 1:05 pm in room 109 of the Physical Sciences Centre, where a film will be shown. The first meeting of the bowling club will also be held on Thursday at 7:30 pm at the Leader Bowling Academy, 1616 St. Catherine St. W. Sign up on the W.A.A. Bulletin board. The Women's Tennis team will play at Macdonald College on Wednesday, October 7th. "Bonne Chance", girls! The Women's illustrious soccer team will clash horns with the Macdonald team on Thursday, October 8th, and spectators are cordially invited. A bus will leave R.V.C. at 6 pm.

There are still a few openings for free swimming lessons. Girls who are in category D or F can still register for lessons held Thursday at 3:15 and 4:15. This year is your last opportunity to take lessons.

If you are female, interested in sports, and working on the Daily, please come down and see me any lunch hour in the Daily office. The men's Sports Editor will be more than glad to see you!

Tennis team preps for OQAA tourney

by LAWRENCE HAIMOVITCH

McGill University's tennis team, which last year won the Intercollegiate crown, is presently hard at work in preparation for this year's matches which will be held at Lava, October 10th, 11th and 12th.

The team is again led by venerable mentor Stan Cutts. Cutts, who last year coached teams to OQAA crowns in both tennis and badminton and also barely missed grabbing the squash title, is quietly confident about this year's entry. Despite the loss of two members from last year, Cutts feels he can come up with adequate replacements to again make his team strong.

Returnees from last year include Steve Chandler and John Tibbits. Cutts feels both boys are highly capable and will do their usual efficient work in the upcoming meet.

Flashy newcomer Tom Gavin is one reason for Cutts' confidence. Gavin is one of the top junior players in Quebec and thus far has impressed all with his fine play. He has virtually assured himself a spot on the team and the coach considers him a topnotch replacement.

Forty boys turned up in the scramble for the fourth spot on the team but about thirty-five have felt the weight of the Coach's axe. Competition among the remaining few has been fierce and Cutts says he will not make his final choice until as late as possible. Quality in the third and fourth posts are of utmost importance as overall team strength usually prevails in the OQAA finals.

U of M favourites

Preliminary indications point to the University of Montreal as favourites but Coach Cutts says "We will be almost as strong as last year and certainly we will make a good showing". Chandler stands an excellent chance of gaining individual honours, especially since last year's champ Burwash of Toronto has presumably gone to the United States.

ATTENTION DEBATORS

Winner of Senior Trials: Robert Scott.
